HARRISBURG, March 26—State employes during the Earle administration were forced to pay a percentage of their wages to the Democratic party under threat of loss of their jobs, the prosecution charged today in the macing trial of Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence and seven other leading members of his party.

State wage earners were warned bluntly that the preservation of their jobs depended upon their making payments, else "others were waiting for their jobs who were ready to pay," Assistant Prosecutor Earl V. Compton told the jury of nine men and three women.

'Bob' Burns Denies Love Pirate Charges

(International News Service)
HOLLYWOOD, March 26.—"Bazooka Bob" Burns, homely hillybilly funnyman of screen and radio fame, today flatly and emphatically denied charges, contained in a $70,000 damage suit, that he was a "love pirate," and a "kidnaper."

The allegations were made by Daniel W. Hoge, former Texas oil man, who knew Burns when the comedian sold street car advertising for a living in Kansas back in 1915.

In his complaint, which he filed late yesterday, Hoge charged Burns had him seized in his Wilmington home and haled under threats to a downtown Los Angeles office, after he had accused Burns of stealing the affections of his wife, Millie Bernice Hoge.

Forced To Sign

There, the suit declared, Hoge was forced to sign a release, absolving Burns of the alleged love theft, and promising never to assert the matter again.

At his swank Bel-Air home, Burns snorted his disgust and his denials.

"This is crazy," he exploded. "I never had any more to do with his wife than the man in the moon.

"I think the guy has lost his mind. Imagine me kidnaping anybody."

Burns said that Hoge had threatened several times to sue him, but that he had taken no notice until Hoge went to the offices of his studio, Paramount Pictures, with his charges.

Labor Unions Not Exempt From Anti-Trust Law Is Ruling Of District Court

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, March 26—Labor unions are not exempt from prosecution under the anti-trust laws, Justice Peyton Gordon ruled in U. S. district court for the District of Columbia today.

The ruling, said to be one of the most important in the history of organized labor, came with the court's dismissal of a demurrer to an indictment returned against a Washington, D. C., labor union, and five of its officers, charging criminal conspiracy to violate the Sherman act.

The government argued that when labor's activities retard or harm the public interest, labor becomes liable under the antitrust laws.

Indictment of the union and its officials last October arose out of a jurisdictional fight between two labor unions that resulted in the stoppage of work on numerous construction projects in the capital, particularly the new social security and census buildings.

It was interpreted at the time as "the beginning of the end" of the jurisdictional strike, and today's court ruling was seen as another step in that direction.

The union official cannot appeal from Gordon's decision, but must stand trial in district courts. A 1924 statute prohibits appeal from an "interlocutory" judgment, and dismissal of a demurrer to an indictment is an interlocutory judgement in legal parlance.

Heavy Artillery Fire On Front

Renewal Of Activity Along Western Front Is Reported By Paris

PATROL SORTIES ALSO REPORTED

By MERRILL MUELLER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, March 26—A huge renewal of activity all along the Western Front, with continuous artillery fire and intensified patrol sorties, was reported in dispatches from the battle zone today.

The fighting broke out with new vigor in the midst of the Easter holidays — the season of peace — as heavy guns pounded the opposing lines from one end of the Franco-German border to the other.

Advices said artillery duels raged yesterday along the entire Western Front and that they were accompanied by numerous German attacks on Allied outposts. These attacks, however, were repulsed with ease, the French reports said.

Propagandists Killed

At one point along the Rhine River sector, three German soldiers launched a small boat in the river, bearing anti-British propaganda slogans.

The soldiers were killed immediately by French rifle fire.

Mysterious explosions were seen and heard at various points along the German Siegfried Line, but it was not known whether these blasts resulted from French artillery shells or from "local accidents."

Both the Allied and German air forces were extremely active. French planes carried out night reconnoitering flights deep into Germany. In

German Vessel Runs Aground Near Denmark

London Reports Steamer Is Grounded Attempting To Evade British Warships

NAVAL CAMPAIGN BEING INTENSIFIED

No Allied Vessels Sunk During Past Week Is British War Report

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 26.—Great Britain's intensified naval campaign against Germany produced still more results today as another German vessel ran aground on the Danish coast south of Hirtshals.

Identity of the German vessel was not revealed beyond the statement that it was a sister-ship of the German coke carrier Edmund Hugo Stinnes IV, which was sunk Sunday night by the British submarine off the west coast of Jutland, Denmark.

No Allied Vessels Lost In Week

At the same time, a British admiralty statement said that during the week ending March 24 not a single British or allied merchant vessel was sunk—the first week since the war began that such vessels escaped unscathed.

Eight neutral ships were sunk, however, the statement said, but none of these was convoyed by British or French warships.

During the same period two German vessels were torpedoed by British submarines, the admiralty added.

These torpedoings resulted from concentration of British surface and

Mauretania Reaches Panama Canal

Luxury Liner To Go Through Canal

Believed Heading For Australia For Use As British Troop Ship

WARSHIP ESCORT TO MEET VESSEL?

(International News Service)

BALBOA, Canal Zone, March 26.—The 35,739-ton British luxury liner Mauretania will pick up a British warship escort after passing through the Panama Canal, it was reported today.

The Mauretania, now painted wartime gray and believed en route to Australia to serve as a troop ship, anchored last night in Cristobal Bay, but was expected to begin passing through the canal at daybreak.

Only a few persons were aware of the presence of the great ship off Cristobal after she arrived under cover of darkness, blacked-out save for her running lights.

To Go Through Canal

The vessel will make the trip through the canal as fast as possible, it was anticipated, and is expected to reach the Pacific early this afternoon.

Shortly thereafter she is expected to contact the warship escort which is believed to be waiting for her at an undisclosed point, presumably to protect her on the long voyage to Australia.

The Mauretania sailed from New York on Wednesday, a day ahead of the giant 81,235-ton British Liner Queen Mary, which is too wide to pass through the canal. If the Queen Mary also is bound for Australia, she probably would make the journey via Cape Horn.

Stories of German submarines lurking off the Galapagos Islands, possibly lying in wait for the Mauretania, were believed responsible for the reported warship escort.

undersea naval units in the Skagerrak and other Scandinavian waters to cut off German imports of Swedish iron ore.

Campaign Intensified

Today this British naval campaign was intensified, and the latest development was the grounding of the sister-ship of the Edmund Hugo Stinnes.

It was learned that the unidentified German vessel ran aground while attempting to evade pursuing British naval craft.

The fate of this ship marked the second incident in which a German vessel has run aground since the new British naval drive got under way. On Sunday the German steamer Ostpreussen ran aground off Skalderup while en route to Germany with a cargo of coke. A Danish salvage vessel went to its assistance.

To Halt Ore Shipments

The navy submarine and surface campaign in the Skagerrak and adjacent waters is evidence of the determination of Britain to halt the iron ore shipments to the Reich from Sweden.

In this drive Britain is taking advantage of the fact that, with the Gulf of Bothnia still land-locked, the only sea route available to Germany for transport of these supplies is the one running down the coast of Norway and thence across to Germany.

Experts state that this route is exceptionally vulnerable to submarine warfare.

The British intensified their program despite a diplomatic clash with Norway arising from the efforts to break Germany's sea connections with Scandinavia.

An Oslo protest against alleged British aerial infractions of Norwegian territory already has been filed with the British foregn office and it was expected that additional Norwegian protests against two alleged warship violations will be made shortly.

Authoritative British quarters insisted, however, that British submarines, warships and planes are doing their work in strict compliance with international law.

British Silent

British naval circles declined to comment on Copenhagen and other Scandinavian reports regarding the nature of the British naval concentration off the Norwegian coast.

These reports estimated that the British units consisted of several flotillas of light and heavy destroyers in addition to submarines.

London authorities indicated they felt Germany would find it "extremely difficult" to check the British "punitive" measures since it is unlikely the Germans would risk sending warships into the North Sea.

Furthermore it would be hazardous for the Germans to use warplanes to convoy vessels coming from Scandinavia owing to the distances such planes would be required to operate from their home bases, British experts declared.

These are the same birds that are so often mistaken for sparrows, at the feeding stations, in winter time.

The banyan tree of India is noted for the great branches it sends down to the earth and which take root again, forming new trunks. In this way, the tree spreads over a great surface and lasts for many ages, though the original trunk may decay. One particular tree has been described as having 350 trunks as large as oak tress, and more than 3,000 smaller trunks.

CHARGES STATE EMPLOYES WERE 'FORCED TO PAY'

in the nature of job insurance, the posecutor explained, after outlining the bookkeeping system allegedly used by the state and Dauphin county Democratic committees to record assessments.

Assistant Prosecutor Earl V. Compton charged in his summation that all eight conspired on July 9, 1937, to make political contributions to the state and Dauphin county Democratic committees nelessary for state employes to hold their jobs and to win promotions and salary increases.

"These defendants conspired to assess the payroll of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania," declared the prosecutor. "The commonwealth will show that this is not a charge of assessing voluntary contributions."

Forced To Pay

The commonwealth, he said, would attempt to prove that employes earning $1,200 a year or less were forced to pay three per cent of their salaries and those earning in excess of $1,200 five per cent.

Three-fifths of the money obtained was turned over to the Democratic state committee and the remainder to the Dauphin county Democratic group, Compton charged.

"We will show that Lawrence and the others established in 1935 a system under which the county chairman must be consulted to obtain positions," he said. "From the first day of June, 1935, to July, 1938, a system of bookkeeping was utilized at the Democratic state committee headquarters at Harrisburg. Against each county committee was entered the amount assessed to it for collection."

Compton indicated he would introduce in the trial correspondence between the state and county committees confirming the existence of the "macing" system.

"We will show that during 1937 collectors were established in the various departments and that small books were prepared for each employe on which was entered the amount due," continued Compton.

"MERCANTS' DAY" IN PIONEER WEEK PROGRAM

a lot of things the dollar spent outside does not do. The dollar that goes into a New Castle merchant's till is divided among many people and multiplied in its uses.

Wages and salaries take a piece of it, and these people are New Castle people who in turn send their share out to a host of other New Castle establishments.

Taxes, utility services, coal, food, clothing, rent, church dues, entertainment, all of them get a piece of the dollar you spend in New Castle. The article you buy is bought as reasonably, usually more reasonably than you can get it in another city, but that dollar spent in the other city goes to aid the people and institutions of the other city, not New Castle.

New Castle merchants sell nationally advertised goods. A suit of clothes manufactured by a nationally known firm is the same suit, whether you buy it here or in New York City. The glamor of the Big Town adds not a whit to the quality of the garment.

Your merchants appreciate your trade. During Pioneer Week let's show them we appreciate their faith in the city.

LONGER LIFE AND EASIER

OUR forefathers, we believe, were built of sterner stuff. They were rugged individuals who lived simple lives, worked hard and endured to a ripe old age. Their longevity is customarily attributed to the absence of many of those elements of modern life that make exacting demands upon our mental and physical resources. But records show a rather disillusioning situation.

Back in 1850, when this nation was comparatively young, the typical male at birth had an expectancy of thirty-eight years of life and females forty and one-half years. Since then the life expectancy has been raised to sixty years for males and sixty-three years for females.

But this improvement need not disturb our cherished belief that our fathers and grandfathers were made of stronger fiber. Little of the credit for added length of years belongs to the individual who now enjoys longer life. The gains have been achieved through reduction in mortality from tuberculosis, through practical abolition of typhoid fever, by the control of other infectious diseases, by the development of better working conditions, better housing, more leisure and recreation; in short, a rise in the standard of living.

With these aids to added years available to them, the stalwarts who conquered a wilderness, laid the basis for an easier life for posterity and then were gathered to their fathers, all too young, probably would have lived for a century or more.

WAGE-HOUR LAW PROBLEMS REMAIN

A wage-hour law decree fixes a 35-cent-an-hour minimum for the shoe industry. It will apply to 60,000 workers now receiving lower rates of pay, virtually one-fourth of the total engaged in shoe manufacturing. They are chiefly located in New England or the St. Louis area, although other sections are scatteringly affected.

New England favored the change. St. Louis manufacturers are fighting mad about it and are preparing a constitutional test of the Wage-Hour Law, already under legal attack from textile manufacturers.

The point sharply illustrated the inequalities and difficulties arising under this law. St. Louis wanted wage differentials for "small communities." The device may or may not be fair. Courts will meet this issue in legal tests, but can't solve it. This and other large problems involved in federal wage-hour regulation are for congress to clear up.

Meanwhile, the human value in such a large prospective increase of income for 60,000 workers cannot be overestimated if it doesn't produce an offset of decreased employment. That, too, is a problem which makes wage-hour regulation of paramount importance to labor as well as to industry.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

WELLES RETURNING WITH EARFUL

Leaving for home, Sumner Welles, the president's special envoy to Europe, talked out loud at last. He said:

"In order to allay the flood of rumors about my mission, I wish to state categorically that I have not received any peace plan or proposals from any belligerent or from any other government; that I have not conveyed any such proposals to any belligerent, nor to any other government; nor am I bringing back to the president and such proposal"

In short, Welles didn't go over to settle the war, and hasn't settled it, and isn't now trying to settle it. Apparently he just went over to listen. And from the length of time he spent there, and the number of statesmen who apparently wanted to see him, and his skittering back and forth from capital to capital, he must have got an earful. All of which will be at the disposal of his boss when he reaches Washington.

The United States government should now be in better position to understand the European situation and to act intelligently in foreign affairs in a very delicate and troubled time.

Certain things, however, in Mr. Welles's trip have not been explained. Important statesmen in European capitals seem to have utilized him as a confidential messenger. Impersonally and unofficially he may have helped in important negotiations—perhaps regarding peace. But if so, the facts may not come out for years.

MACHINES BLOCK THE GYPSY TRAIL

King Kaslov, leader of 2500 Russian gypsies in New York, has thrown up the sponge. Declaring that the Machine Age has caught up with the nomads, he is urging his young men to learn to read, write and settle down.

He blames it all on the automobile and tractor, which took away horse dealing—sometimes spelled differently by the unfriendly—as a leading support; aluminum ware, which destroyed their ancient trade of copper-smithing, and the harsh repression of the police, which has made it virtually impossible for a gypsy to "earn an innocent dollar" telling fortunes.

It seems that His Majesty has his cases mixed. The gypsies began slipping when they abandoned their traditional colorful garb and themselves took to the automobile. In their heydey a gypsy caravan was an exciting little pageant passing by. Now it is just another line of jalopies.

It wasn't the police so much as the competition of astrology, numerology, crystal gazing and table rapping which put old fashioned gypsy fortune telling in the discard.

So the gypsies may as well accept the King's advice and go to work. Then, maybe, some day they can earn enough money to buy trailers and sally forth with them on the open road occasionally—when the job will let them.

Western livestock men say cattle have lacked Vitamin A during the past winter. In other words, they haven't been eating their spinach.

One of the big items in this census is a bath tub count. When the Constitution provided for a census, General Washington bathed in the creek.

There are now 932,305 employes of the executive branch of the federal government. If this keeps up, the government may yet solve the unemployment problem.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

SPORTSMANSHIP IN THE FAMILY

ONE may practice perfect sportsmanship on the golf links or at the bridge table, and a few minutes later prove a poor sport with one's wife, husband or child.

I suppose we would be too good for this world if our chivalry on special occasions were to generalize itself toward all the members of our family. If each married pair were as considerate toward each other as they usually were in their earlier sweetheart days, marital quarrels and divorces would be few. If there is one rule which, strictly carried out, would more than any other assure happy marriage and happy family relationships, it is the rule of sportsmanship.

Men and women of cultivation and good taste, when engaged in sports or games, are noted for their extreme deference toward one another. The attitude of "after you" prevails. The victor does not gloat over his victories or show delight in the failure of the loser. Neither does the loser charge the victor with unfairness. The slightest step outside the bounds of accpted rules of the game or beyond conventional behavior is quickly followed by "I'm sorry" or "My mistake" or "Please pardon me."

Do Much for Home

What would these elements of sportsmanship do for the happiness of homes and for marital tranquillity if they were to carry on in one's hour-by-hour and day-by-day living with one's family companion and one's children?

When you and I reflect upon the moments when we were involved in a home misunderstanding, with wife, husband or child, we readily can see how sportsmanship was relaxed. At such moments it is not the spirit of "after you" that prevails. The Sermon on the Mount is not in practice then. Each, instead, is for himself, each sinking, probably, to a pretty low level of conduct, far out of reach of the ideals which prevail in sportsmanship.

At golf or bridge it is not so hard to be chivalrous. Rather, it is hard not to be. The fear of disapproval there is very powerful. A number of other persons are standing by to check up on us, and our social status is at stake. When one is with one's wife, husband or child, the situation is vastly different. String restraining influences are not there to help. To prove a real sportsman then calls for many time as much self-control.

Worth Striving For

Nevertheless, such self-restraint then and habits of holding one's conduct strictly to ideals is none the less worth striving for.

I have a notion that, by taking thought, by becoming conscious of our relations to our loved ones, by putting our attention now on this situation, now on that, we might be able gradually to spread our sportsmanship wider and wider so as to include a great many situations in the home. In such common instances as little arguments and disagreements between man and wife it might be possible for each to be calm and play the game in a fair way, neither taking undue advantage of the other, neither moving out of turn, and both striving by what he knows to be sportsman-like conduct. Then neither would grow manifestly angry or let his voice rise. Both would be calm. Reason and not passion would prevail. What

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

ROAD TO RUIN

What is this thing that is blasting at the foundations of a system—capitalistic if you will—the record of which has been one of noteworthy and phenomenal success, making it possible for every mother's son of us normally to enjoy not only the necessities, but the luxuries of life? What are we facing, in this country of unlimited resources of industry, of genius, and a spirit of enterprise and determination?

It is not the size of our huge national debt that is holding us back, as bad as it is. It should not be forgotten that back in the 1920s, under a different leadership, we not only reduced the national debt by some ten billions dollars but we have been gospelized by the present administration in Washington with the philosophy of defeat. We have been prosperous and happy while doing it. It is because we have been poisoned by distrust and misgivings. We have been fed on a diet of hate, greed, intolerance and selfishness, all seasoned with an imaginary spice of class distinction. The rich, poor and the middle-class have been arrayed against each other one played against the other for the attainment of political power and influence.

We have been told that human progress, unler the system of economic freedom, has come to an end, and that if we hoped to continue to exist, we must submit to regimentation, and have our lives planned for us, under the benevolent rulership of a super-mind whose sole purpose would be to supply our material wants. Our moral and spiritual needs have been heaved out the window.

In pursuance of this theory, adopted elsewhere in the world, we find two-thirds of the human race at war. We find our own country almost fifty billion dollars in debt, and ten to twelve million out of employment, and receiving four billion dollars a year for relief. We find our government each year spending four billion dollars more than it is taking in, and not the slightest hope or plan for any improvement. Business is being drained of its capital, its surplus and its earnings, all exacted by a government that is staggering around in

Last night I heard her give this good advice to a young girl in the neighborhood who has just obtained her first secretarial position: Never chew gum while at work. Never clean your nails or comb your hair except in the firm's rest rooms. Never resent the criticism of a superior. Be grateful for it. Always be friendly to your chief but impersonal about it. Unless you do more than you are paid for, you will never be paid for more than you do.

Readers' Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel: Isn't it bad taste for people at the theatre to ask those about them to refrain from conversation. Even though the talking does annoy them, is it their place to reprimand the conversationalists?

—Ruby.

Answer: Whether you are at the theatre or the movies, have consideration for those around you and refrain from even whispered conversation during the program.

Just one comment spoken to your companion may spoil the whole picture or play for someone whose concentration you have disturbed—who was unable to hear an important passage because your voice drowned it out.

If you have comments, no matter how interesting, save them until after the program or, if you are at a play, for the entr'acts, which is the proper time for the audience to relax and discuss the foregoing and the coming acts.

Remember that your neighbor in the theatre who says—"Sssh, I cannot hear when you talk" is displaying better taste by thus remonstrating than are you by your annoying conversation.

"Nope," replied the old man continuing with his figures. "I am J. P. Morgan, are you going to flag that train?" "Nope," answered the old man whereupon Mr. Morgan grabbed the flag and ran out into the middle of the tracks waving it wildly at the oncoming train. O'Mahoney Suggests Machinery Tax
Believes It Would Solve Situation
Would Offer Protection To Workers

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney's plan to tax machinery embodies the protective principle in a new form.—Senator O'Mahoney is chairman of a committee which has been looking for such flaws in our national system as may have been responsible for America's economic troubles in the past decade. His committee has been conducting its diagnosis quite a while, and the senator is ready to begin suggesting some remedies. His proposed machinery tax is the first of them.

As previously remarked, it's a form of protection.

Our initial idea of protection was tariff protection. In our republic's early days, our manufacturing naturally was very primitive. Old world factories dumped their products onto us and undersold our home-made goods by virtue of what, in those times, passed for mass production. To offset this inequality it was argued that we ought to slap a stiff import tax onto this foreign stuff, to protect our "infant industries".

Tariffs Worked

The protectionists reasoned, correctly, that imported goods, offered in our markets, would have to have their prices increased, by the amount of the duty they must pay, which would make them correspondingly more expensive, and tend to make buyers prefer our cheaper American products.

The scheme was adopted and worked all right. We know how our industries developed.

Finally a point was reached at which some few statesmen began complaining that we were overdoing the thing. The Republicans were the original protective party, but even several of its leaders evolved the reciprocity notion, approximately as State Secretary Hull has been applying it. James G. Blaine, for instance, was a reciprocity-ite. He said that when an "infant industry" threatened to get up and kick congress' head off if it stopped "rocking the cradle", he didn't think it was much of an "infant" any longer.

Pretty Popular

Nevertheless, tariff protection was pretty popular. Of course the manufacturers liked it, because its effect was to hold foreign competition down to a minimum. Labor liked it, too, on the ground that it enabled American industries to pay higher wages. And this was true also. To be sure, the exclusion of foreign goods made American living costs high likewise, which detracted somewhat from the beauty of high wages.

Still, our workers undoubtedly were better off, by reason of their higher pay, than the old world's workers.

Assume, then, that tariff protection is a good thing for a craftsman with a steady job. It does him no good, however, if he's jobless. Fat envelopes don't in the least benefit a chap who isn't getting one.

And, somehow, it appears that a protective tariff is no protection against unemployment.

Our huge army of workless workers testifies to all this.

What Senator O'Mahoney has been figuring on is:

"What does the worker need to guarantee him a regular job?"

Man-Power Versus Machinery

The senator's conclusion is that machinery is the competitor to be legislated against. It's cheaper than man-power, and quite considerably it supplants the latter.

Now, the remedy?

Why, tax machinery so heavily that manufacturers will prefer to use as little of it as possible. Then they'll fall back on man-power.

Isn't that protective? Against machinery?

Critics haven't had time to get busy on the O'Mahoney proposition yet.

When they do they'll howl like everything; that's a certainty. Imagine the fury of makers of labor-saving machinery at such a suggestion! Presumably it would hike all sorts of prices, at consumerdom's expense. And, on general principles, it does seem like turning time backward in its flight rather forcibly.

All the same, it's an interesting adaptation of the protective doctrine.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1940 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Dropping pamphlets from airplanes, urging revolt in the enemy's country, has been looked upon as something new. The word "propaganda" is fairly new, in its current meaning, and we hear sage references to this "propaganda war," or "political war," as we note the efficacy of planes and the radio in waging this conte t. But, outside of modern mechanisms, this war is running according to form.

The men of the old school tie who devise British policy and drop pamphlets instead of bombs over Germany might have gotten the idea from the ancient Greeks. Themistocles, one of the slickest politicians that ever lived, also a formidable fighter, knew all about pamphleteering again t an enemy. Plutarch tells about it:

"As Themistocles sailed along the coast, he took notice of the harbors and fit places for the enemy's ships to come and land at, and engraved large letters in such stones as he found there by chance, as also in others which he set up on purpose near to the landing places, or where they were to water; in which inscriptions he called upon the Ionians to foresake the Medes, if it were possible, and come over to the Greeks, who were their proper founders and fathers, and were now hazarding all for their liberties; but if this could not be done, at any rate to impede and disturb the Persians in all engagements.

"He hoped that these writings would prevail with the Ionians to revolt, or raise some trouble by making their fidelity doubtful to the Persians."

That may seem disquietingly like the "ideology" battes of today, but there is an important qualification to be made. In the above and other instances in which the Greeks made forays against enemy opinion and fealty, they were addressing the few literate leaders of the opposition forces and not the rank and file, among whom literacy was almost nil.

While the Greeks, from Pericles on, formulated the philosophical ideal of democracy, it was something for the handful of Anthenian citizens and not for the multitude of helots. Mass literacy and mass education had no place in their statecraft, war or philosophy. So this was is possibly unique in its espousal of mass opinion as a military factor, even if the pamphleteering is old stuff.

Utterly unique, bewildering perhaps, to the Greeks would have been the current news dispatch from London which tells about England importing American college professors to explain the war to British soldiers. Dr. Basil Yeaxlee, a famous scholar of Oxford, has this in hand, along with a general educational campaign, financed in part by the Pilgrim Trust, "to teach the soldiers to think."

The above dispatch says:

"Dr. Yeaxlee has found it necessary to enlist many lecturers to explain why Europe is now at war."

That would be a tempting line for anybody wishing to take a pot-shot at old England, engaged in her traditional business of "muddling through," and hiring somebody to tell her why. But the story in its entirety deserves more serious consideration. It reports a frank avowal of the fact that England has been just "muddling through," so far as democratic education is concerned, and outlines a tremendous effort on the part of the government to provide political as well as cultural education, in a framework of democratic principles.

Dr. Yeaxlee says:

"You must endeavor to explain

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Hope To Secure Paving Project

East Cherry Street Project Has Been Pending For Several Years

A committee, representing the Seventh Ward Civic club and residents of East Cherry street, are making an effort to secure a paving project for this street, this year.

Need of having this street paved, between Newell avenue and the Shenango river, has been felt for sometime, and the project has been pending several years. Each year this project has been promised for the ward, and each year it seems to get cancelled until the following year.

At the present time this street is in very bad condition, and very little may be done for it outside of paving. Importance of this roadway is plainly seen, inasmuch as it is the main road from the city to both the Universal Sanitary Manufacturing Company and the B. and O. railroad shops. It is also the road from Mahoningtown to West Pittsburg.

Dance Tonight At Columbus Society

Members of the Christopher Columbus Society A. C. softball team are holding a dance tonight at 8:30 o'clock, in the society hall, South Liberty street.

Tony Compelli, Tony Funera and Skip Russo are on the committee making arrangements for the dance and John Dochko is in charge of the music.

NEWS BRIEFS IN WARD DISTRICT

Several visits are made to the Seventh Ward each day by the city police department cruiser cars, who keep a sharp look-out for violators of city rules and regulations.

Posters asking for the residents of the district to do their part in helping to build New Castle into a bigger and better city, have been placed in the windows of many places of business here.

Now that Easter is over, things are again settling back to normal. Organizations are finding it rather difficult, however, to schedule meetings this week, due to the fact that so many people are still out of town, visiting.

Students of the Mahoning school are still on vacation and will be for the remainder of the week.

It is likely that the fine tennis court, sponsored by the Seventh Ward Progressive club, on South Ashland street, will have to be moved this coming season. The club members are already looking or another site for their recreation center.

We find those high in authority, instead of appealing to the enterprise and initiative of the people to help work ourselves out of our predicament, clamping down and pinching out our last few remaining business liberties, the end of which will mean the total collapse of both our political and economic systems, and the ushering in of a nationalized business, with men and women becoming enslaved subjects of a bureaucracy, instead of free, peace-loving citizens of a people's government.

The Human Side Of The News

He says their main endeavor is to "keep the men's minds alive." There's a convincing statement of war aims in itself. If they are fighting for a world in which it is safe to think, that's something.

Considering England's traditional attitude toward this country's intellectual attainments, this appeal for professorial first aid is something to write home about. In any good London club, you will find a fixed and unshakeable belief that if you have money enough you can buy your degree at any American university. Heavens knows how they came to think our professors could teach their lads anything. But that's water over the wheel. England never has had mass education in any real sense. If she is now catching up with us, we can afford to be chivalrous about it. But I know one Cambridge don, an archaeologist, who surely will die in his firm belief that a Harvard doctorate costs you 300 pounds, put down in the wicket in the dean's office.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

miracles then would come to pass!

Solving Parent Problems

Q. What may the parent do to help the child who writes in such a way that what he writes is legible only as seen in the mirrow—mirror writing?

A. Calmly, patiently and sympathetically supervise the child always while he writes or prints, so that he associates only correct movements as he writes. Guide his hand or show him how to write from left to right, following a model or copy. Also read slowly from easy sentences as he follows each word while you move finger from left to right as each word is said, and do likewise in spelling—until he gets clearly the idea and swing of correct sequence. Having him print words on a typewriter also should help.

Q. Should the employed child over 21 years of age, living at home, be sole owner of his pay envelope?

A. Yes, but he should pay his parents board. If the family are in need of his help, and there always have been wholesome relationships in the family, this youth will probably choose also to contribute to the family's support.

Pennsylvania Motor Federations Says Motorists Are Cooperating In Change

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 26—Pennsylvania's shift to new operators' license and motor vehicle registration years, now in its final stage, is being achieved with "remarkable speed and smoothness" the Pennsylvania Motor Federation reported.

The federation said that more than 1,500,000 registrations are likely to be renewed before the dead-line for the use of 1939 tags, midnight, Sunday, March 31.

"Motorists, who last year won their persistent campaign to have Pennsylvania's motor vehicle registrations renewed in the spring, are doing their part to make the actual change smoothly and painlessly," Richard B. Maxwell, secretary-manager, said.

Westfall Speaks To Exchange Club

Local Organization Observes 28th Anniversary Of 'Exchange'

New Castle's Exchange Club joined with similar organizations throughout the nation in celebrating the 29th anniversary of 'Exchange', Monday evening in a North Jefferson street restaurant.

Charles T. Westfall, a member of the state board of control and treasurer of the Pittsburgh Academy, and incidentally, a former New Castleite, was the principal speaker and delivered a very appropriate address entitled, "Exchange Meets the Test". Mr. Westfall stressed the importance of proper education of our youth and prevention of juvenile delinquency.

He stated that the very life of our Exchange Club depends upon its ambition to do something and commended the local club for its sponsorship of the Gra Y Boys Club and the New Castle Gasoline Model Plane Builders Club.

Another important objective of Exchange, he stated, is American citizenship and the necessity for protection from the inroads of communism and other "isms" and urged the club as a unit to undertake activities that will protect what our fathers won so dearly.

President L. J. Lewis presided and introduced the guests. Past President H. Gill Brown read the greetings of the founder, Charles A. Berkey, who founded the first Exchange Club in Detroit, Michigan on March 27, 1911.

Thursday To Be 'Open House' In City Hall

Mayor And Council Want Citizens To Attend Meeting At 10 A. M.

Thursday will be "Open House" day in city hall, Mayor Charles B. Mayne and council colleagues having accepted the invitation of the Greater New Castle Association, issued through L. B. Round of the co-ordination committee to adopt this method of aiding Pioneer's week.

According to the mayor and colleagues, every official and subordinate will be at his or her post and explain the operation of the city departments.

Promptly at 10 a. m. council will convene in their chambers on the second floor and the mayor and council would like to have as many citizens and high school students as possible attend the meeting.

During the session those who do avail themselves of the opportunity will learn "by first hand" how the affairs of the city government are conducted.

According to Mayor Mayne the city's financial condition is equal to, if not better than any other third class city in Pennsylvania. Only recently one-half mill was cut off the tax levy.

It is likely he will have Finance Director James L. Fink give a report Thursday to those assembled as to the city's financial condition. Other councilmen will explain the workings of their bureaus.

The mayor, council and their wives also will participate in the Saturday night banquet. In other words, the legislators of the city are co-operating wholeheartedly.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Letters intended for this column must be signed with name and address of writer.

March 18, 1940.

To the Editor,
New Castle News.
Dear Sir:

March 8, 1940, the President of The United States gave us a talk over the air about the seventh anniversary of agriculture under the Democratic administration. Much has been said about expenses and taxes the past eight years. Will give a few articles in brief where some of the money was invested.

In our Southern states the farmers or cotton producers were ordered to plow down or destroy every third or fourth row of cotton. Now on the other hand our government purchased from Egypt 52,640 bales of cotton, five hundred pounds per bale. From China 50,595; from British India, 3,833 bales; from Mexico, 223 bales; from Peru, 4,889 bales; from other countries 20,406 bales. The government pays our farmers to destroy crops then purchases from foreign countries.

The government economists say this country's farmers are assured of government checks for $412,230,000.00 for reduction of crops as follows: wheat, $102,000,000.00; corn, hogs, $165,000,000; cotton, $94,200,000; sugar, $47,000,000; peanuts, $4,000,000; according to our president, this amount did not come out of our government treasury as the triple A just paid the bill. He also said the triple A has done much for the farmer (only by the aid of the taxpayer).

Sure the department of agriculture has assisted the farmer, except the past seven years, when he and the corporations have been taxed to the bleeding point.

When the crop report first started on agriculture, we could not say at present; but the writer of this article is one of the twenty thousand that report each month and has for past forty-five years in the United States. Never before the past seven years has the department of agriculture or our government thrown money into rat holes.

I thank you,
G. D. GLOSNER,
467 Neshannock Avenue,
City.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Even the best of babies burp.

It is not a social faux pas for those under one year of age.

Some air or gas naturally accumulates in the infant's stomach.

This is belched during and after feeding.

Too much sugar or starch in the food may cause this trouble.

Or the feeding formula needs other modification.

Some babies have an excess of gas regardless of the food.

Other babies do not feed properly from the bottle.

They suck air through the nipple when it is not filled with milk.

This air swallowed gives much the same symptoms as gas.

Hold the baby to your shoulder; pat and rub his back gently.

Singing, meanwhile, that after-feeding chanson, "Burp, my baby, burp!"

Sight Saving Fund To Benefit

Ladies Of Lions To Sponsor Penn Movie To Aid In Raising Funds

It has been announced by Mrs. John S. Walters, chairman of the committee, that the ladies of the Lions club will sponsor a benefit sale of tickets for the movie "Young Tom Edison," starring Mickey Rooney, which will open Friday, April 12, at the Penn theater.

"Young Tom Edison" has been widely praised for it's humanly portrayed story of the struggle of young Edison in the early development of the many inventions which later made him famous. Mickey Rooney departs from his usual type of screen role to give what is said to be his finest performance.

The ticket selling committee of the Ladies of the Lions club consists of Mrs. V. A. Leivo, Mrs. Numa Vidal, Mrs. Paul Dingledy, Mrs. L. J. Brown, Mrs. William McCombs and Mrs. W. A. McNally. Tickets are now in the hands of the committee and are now being offered to the public.

The benefits derived from the sale of tickets for "Young Tom Edison" will be given to the support of the Sight Saving Work of the Lions club.

REPAIRING FLOWER VASE

There's no need to discard flower vases that have developed leaks and cracks. They can easily be repaired at home. Fill the cracks with white lead, worked in with a putty knife. When the vase is colored add a little dry color to match the vase to the white lead, working it well into the mixture before applying. Then line the inside bottom and sides with paraffin. This you can do my melting the parrafin and allowing it to run down the sides moving the vase around so that it becomes well coated.

Willard Grangers Celebrate Tonight

Will Hail 30 Years Of Community Service: Grange Notables Here

Three high officers of the Pennsylvania State Grange will be in attendance tonight when Willard Grange, Lawrence County's second oldest grange organization, celebrates the 30th anniversary of its founding.

Lawrence County Pomona Grange leaders, headed by Master W. Sharp Fullerton, will also join in the festivities in the Willard hall, located near Mt. Hermon church in Slippery Rock township. The program opens at 8.

Between 200 and 250 grangers and their friends—rural and city—will attend, it is thought.

Addresses will be given by State Master K. S. Bagshaw, State Secretary Miles Horst and State Lecturer Mrs. Ira C. Gross. Pomona Master Fullerton will also speak. Presiding will be Willard Master Francis Boak, son of the former state master, J. Audley Boak, who is active in Willard's program.

Willard Grange was organized March 10, 1910, just about two weeks after the organization of Plaingrove Grange.

Tomorrow the state officers will appear at the "training school" for 200 grange officers in the New Wilmington Presbyterian church. Sessions are scheduled for 10:30 a. m. and 1 p. m. and delegations will be in attendance from Lawrence, Beaver, Butler and Mercer counties.

Seven regional "schools" have already been conducted by the state officers and 10 more are planned.

Speaking with the three state grange chiefs tomorrow will be Mrs. Gerald Shumway, superintendent of the state's juvenile grange organization.

DIES PROBE CENTER ON COMMUNISTS

new phase of his investigation—to uncover an alleged Soviet spy ring in this country. These were:

1. A list of Pittsburgh Communists will be called by the committee and asked for a roster of their membership and particularly what Communist held the card with the name "Franklin D. Roosevelt." If they refuse to answer, as Dolsen did, they, too, will be cited for contempt.

2. A subpoena has been issued by Clarence Hathaway, identified as the editor of the Communist Daily Worker in New York. Dies said "we have a lot of telegrams and messages that passed between him and Moscow."

Admits Writing Card

The card bearing the name "Franklin D. Roosevelt" was turned over to secret service agents after the committee questioned Dolsen. The 55-year-old avowed Pittsburgh Communist admitted having written out the card "for a friend," but declined to name the friend.

"There are a lot of other prominent people whose names are being usd by the Communists this way, and they have no protection from it," Dies declared. "We expect to make an example of this case."

Dolsen yesterday refused to identify a list of asserted Pittsburgh Communists. Dies said many of these, including Martin Young, Pittsburgh Communist secretary who countersigned the fictitious Roosevelt card, will be ordered before the committee.

Dies declared the committee is "particularly interested" in getting as witnesses Hathaway and Nicholas Dozenberg, Communists leader in jail in New York on passport fraud charges.

"Some of these witnesses are ducking out on us, but we'll get them," Dies said. "There's a regular Russian O. G. P. U. operating in this country and we're going to find out about it."

Fire Causes $25,000 Damage At Mine In Mercer County

Tipple, Equipment And Coal Burn—Mine On Mercer-Grove City Road

(Special To The News)

MERCER, March 26. — About an hour after employees had completed their work, a fire caused $25,000 damages to the Mercer Coal Producing Company, located in Findley County, three miles east of Mercer, on the Mercer-Grove City road, Monday night, about 11 o'clock.

Clyde Marsh, general manager, today said that he believed the blaze was started by an overheated stove located in the tiple.

The tipple, equipment and about 200 tons of coal were destroyed.

The Mercer and Fredonia fire departments answered a call and managed to salvage the weighing room, ponies and a barn.

The damage is partially covered by insurance.

The mine is one of the largest in Mercer county, employing between 40 and 50 men.

New Electrical Disturbance Is Believed On Way

Scientist Says Electrical Particles Racing Toward Earth

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, March 26.—Before the end of today, earth may be for a repetition of the astronomical blitzkreig that disrupted telephone, telegraph and wireless communication Saturday and Sunday in a huge magnetic storm.

This possibility was revealed by I. M. Leavitt, assistant director at Fels Planetarium, who said another sun spot has been seen stretching some 10,000 miles across the sun. Astronomers theorized that electric particles generated by a sun spot were the cause of the week-end flare-up which played hob with long-distance telephone calls, short wave radio and teletype systems.

Leavitt said he saw the new sun spot—a funnel-shaped storm pointing directly at the earth—yesterday morning. The storm's electric particles now are racing toward earth about 1,000 miles a second and should reach this planet sometime before nightfall. It takes the particles about 26 hours to cover the 93,000,000 miles.

An unusually brilliant display of northern lights last night was attributed by some scientists to the sun spot.

Silence On Third Term Is Expected

President To Make Address On Air On April 20 It Is Announced

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 26. — White House announcement that President Roosevelt would go on the air April 20 with a nationwide political broadcast aroused interest in the competing 1940 camps, but left most observers still convinced the broadcast would pass without any pronouncement on the third term.

Those close to the President predicted his radio speech to a series of dinners arranged by the young Democrats of America would fail to produce any inkling as to Mr. Roosevelt's ultimate decision on running again.

Supporters of Vice President Garner and other hopeful Democratic candidates were of a like mind, basing their opinion on the President's sphinx-like attitude on the important question to date.

EGGS 'BOMB' CITY AS 2,000 CHEER

Youthful Crowds Roar Delight As Lions Planes 'Shell' Candy

Two thousand quarter-pound pokes of Easter jelly eggs were dropped from two planes Monday afternoon into the waiting hands of 2,000 New Castle district youngsters who thronged six different athletic fields for the holiday stunt sponsored by the Lions club.

Postponement of the "egg bombardment" last Saturday failed to spoil plans, for yesterday's cheering crowds more than doubled the number that had assembled for the affair that afternoon. High winds kept the planes on the ground Saturday.

As the planes soared overhead and swooped down toward the shouting children, members of the Lions club policed the grounds and saw to it that order prevailed and that no one got hurt. They made sure that everybody got some candy.

Riding with the plane pilots were the official "bombers" representing the Lions—President Roy F. Conway, L. J. Brown and Jay G. Rudolph.

Between 4 and 6 o'clock those three tossed out a 350-pound cargo of eggs. Each of the planes made four trips up.

Pilot Finley Wilson, owner of both ships, directed the aerial arrangements and was at the controls of one of the planes.

Former Armstrong County Register Is Facing Charges

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 26.—The state departments of revenue and justice colaborated today in pressing for the prosecution of Glenn Mast, former Armstrong county register of wills charged with the embezzlement of $3,923 in state inheritance tax funds last December.

Attorney General Claude T. Reno, acting on information furnished by Walter J. Kress, deputy secretary of revenue, ordered private Willard Schauer of the Pennsylvania motor police to swear to informations charging that Mast failed to turn over nearly $4,000 in state funds.

Reno said that Deputy Attorney General Russell Shockley had been assigned to investigate for the justice department. Kress informed Reno of the alleged embezzlement last week, the attorney general added.

Kress himself acted upon information furnished by Armstrong county officials, he declared.

somebody, brought Hoge downtown to find out what it was all about. I was not there, but I was told Hoge said there was nothing to the charges. Then he signed a paper admitting it, and later apologized to me and asked me to forgive him."

The alleged kidnaping took place, according to Hoge's complaint, on December 29, 1938.

Not only did his abductors seize his person, Hoge charged, but also ransacked his house and confiscated important papers.

After he had signed the releases, one of which absolved the Paramount Company, he stated his "life was threatened unless he 'forgot all about this,' with the result he has lived in fear ever since."

He alleged that Burns, whom he first met in Kansas in 1915, renewed acquaintance in Hollywood in 1932 when he began visiting Hoge and his wife.

Married Secretary

In 1935, Hoge alleged, his wife left him "because of Burns," and in 1938, Hoge planned to get a divorce, naming Burns, but denied that he had ever threatened the actor with the suit or asked for money.

Hoge declared he signed the releases on advice of an attorney, who told him to sign and take action later.

Burns' first wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Fisher Burns, died of accidental burns in 1936, and on May 30, 1937, the comedian married his secretary, the former Harriet Foster.

Copenhagen Has Trade Paralysis

Danish Parliament Moves To Pass New Laws To Offset Effect Of War

(International News Service)

COPENHAGEN, March 26—While a general trade paralysis reigned through shops in Copenhagen, drastic new laws were proposed before the rigsdag (parliament) today in an attempt to offset the effects of the war on Danish economy.

Premier Stauning told the Rigsdag Denmark must limit consumption of goods within its borders as well as broaden its exports despite the devastating destruction of Danish shipping through mines and other forms of naval warfare.

The government, he said, is not considering devaluation of Danish currency. Unless consumption is limited, however, the Danish trade balance for 1940 will show a deficit of at least five to six hundred million kroners.

Surtaxes on certain consumers goods already are in effect throughout the country.

Senator Taft Urges U. S. Return To Self-Government

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, March 26—U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio declared Monday that a New Deal victory in 1940 would perpetuate a "vast bureaucracy" which will "choke all individual enterprise" and bring "continued depression, stagnation and in time a totalitarian state."

Senator Taft, a leading aspirant for the G. O. P. presidential nomination, urged election of a Republican administration to insure a return to "self-government." He spoke in this city, site of his party's national convention in June, before the Republican Luncheon club of Southeastern Pennsylvania.

"The New Deal is a government run by executive power," charged the Ohioan, "interfering with and regulating constantly the daily lives of its citizens. If the present administration is returned to power in 1940, that power and regulation will be increased and extended without limit.

Planned Economy Not Success

"Planned ecenomy has not worked," asserted Senator Taft. "It leaves us still with nine million people unemployed, almost confiscatory prices for farm products and a national standard of living lower than it was ten years ago. It has been inspired by actual hostility to the development of free enterprise and the growth of private industry to which alone we can look for increased employment and prosperity.

"Extension of the activities of the federal government has been accomplished in two ways," he continued. 'First, whenever a new bureau is created it is nearly always given power to make regulations expanding the law until the lawmaking activities of the bureau exceed those of Congress itself. Second, power is delegated without standard of any kind.

"Congress has been besieged by all kinds of small business men whose businesses are hamstrung and discouraged by continuous federal interference," declared the Ohio solon, singling out for criticism the national labor relations board, securities and exchange commission, wage hour administration, Walsh-Healy law division and the internal revenue bureau.

LADIES HAT INDUSTRY IN STATE SIZABLE ONE

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 26 — The manufacture of women's hats in Pennsylvania is a $5,000,000 business annually, it has been revealed by the State Department of Commerce.

At a season of the year when milady prances down the main street of every town, village and hamlet in the commonwealth, her head adorned with her new Easter bonnet, Secretary of Commerce Richard J. Brown disclosed that 19 factories in Pennsylvania manufacture women's hats.

Twelve of the establishments, Brown said, are located in Philadelphia, but the largest factories are found in Adamstown and Denver, Lancaster county, and in Reading.

HOSPITAL TESTS REVEAL GREAT DISCOVERY FOR CONSTIPATION

At last—here's an ideal, "daily" treatment for constipation with its headaches, mental dullness, fatigue and sallow skin.

Tests in a world-famous hospital have proved a "little daily dose" of Kruschen (world-famous formula, now at last obtainable in pleasant tasting "bubbling" form) actually produces nature's own gentle, pleasant, "daily" bowel movements by keeping the waste matter in the colon moist, soft and easy to expel.

Scientists report: "Kruschen can be taken for years without having to increase the dose." Also acts as a mild Antacid and Kidney Stimulant. Gives you MORE for your money, too! A jar that costs only a trifle lasts for WEEKS. Over 245,000,000 jars have been sold thruout the world. Kruschen MUST be good—it MUST do the work! Made in U. S. A.

Now Comes in Pleasant Tasting "Bubbling" Form!

AROUND CITY HALL

Are people interested in what city officials do? The answer will come Thursday when they attend "Open House" as a part of the Pioneer Week program. In fact, it might be a "See, Listen and Learn" opportunity. There are many important items affecting taxpayers which at times comes before the body. However, to the observer it sometimes appears as though the only one who cares is the specific person or persons affected.

The mayor and each councilman will give a five-minute recital of his duties and what comprises his department . . . Each will tell of the plans for 1940 . . . A financial report will be made. There will be no long-winded speeches. In plain words the mayor and councilmen want the citizens and high school students who attend the session promptly at 10 a. m. to know "What's What in City Hall".

Here are a few pointers for consumption: This city is in good financial shape. Whenever bonds are issued they are snapped up by investors . . . The city has another paving program ready to start whenever the weather breaks . . . The city has a $500,000 sewage disposal plant and an efficeint garbage furnace . . . Each year 68 persons are given free plots to grow vegetables at the sewage disposal plant.

Every member of council has served one or more terms and is an experienced legislator . . . The city has two lawyers, William Cobau and Gilbert Long . . . It may be only a short time until an assessor is appointed. In fact, he may be named April 1. As yet none has been recommended . . The city has good fire and police departments. The former has good equipment, likewise the police . . . This city has a police radio broadcasting system. It was installed when John Haven was chief. Wayne Sines did the work.

Mrs. Jennie Sankey is the chief clerk to the assessor. She has several assistants. It is their duty to figure how much tax one must pay . . . The city has a health officer, Dr. W. L. Steen. He is the guardian of health. It is his duty to know that no impure milk or water is served here, and whenever a person contracts a contagion he is the man who orders a quarantine placed . . . The city owns Cascade Park and Sylvan Heights golf course. Gaston Park is also city-owned and draws big crowds of children throughout the summer.

The city intends to start tree-planting when the trees arrive and the weather is suitable . . . Cascade lake is being cleaned. It is proposed to stock fish in the lake. If it is closed for two years, Cascade lake should become a fishermen's paradise . . . The City building, if one doesn't know where it is, stands at the corner of East and East Washington street with an entrance on East street.

Utility companies which own poles in this city pay the city a pole tax and the street car company is required to pay almost $1,500, as a portion of the street cleaning expense. . . . The city employes now pay an income tax, if the salary calls for such.

All street work is under the jurisdiction of Councilman W. H. Dunlap. All buildings and parks are under the jurisdiction of Councilman Joe Alexander. The fire department and health conditions are presided over by Councilman D. O. Davies and the finance department is ruled by Councilman James L. Fink. Mayor Charles B. Mayne has charge of the police, city clerk's office, plumbing department, seal of weights and measures and legal department.

The city has a fleet of 50 pieces of motorized apparatus. The city does not need to pay for licenses. . . . The police bureau, under Chief of police M. J. Young, has a cruiser system, and fingerprint and photographic divisions. W. G. McMullen is in charge of the detective bureau. . . . James Mayberry is reportedly the best mercantile assessor the city has had. He is yet on the job. . . . C. R. Balph is the sealer of weights and measures. He is the man who sees that everyone gets the right weight and measure and recently reported he has not had any short weight or measure complaints. . . . Neil Williams, long time employe of the city helps draft maps and issues building and excavation permits.

C. C. McKibben, city treasurer might appropriately be called "Smilin' Rube." No difference whether taxes come in fast or slow, C. C. meets the taxpayers with a smile. He is the gentleman who mails the tax statements to Mr. and Mrs. John Public. . . . Sid Lockley is the city controller. Lockley is an auditor for the city. He scrutinizes all bills of the city. . . . There is one man who keeps Cascade Park pretty. He is seldom seen by the recreationists. However, he is Mike Ross who devotes his time to raising flowers in the park greenhouse. . . . Chris Coulthard is manager of the park. This is ruled by a board of commissioners who report to Councilman Alexander and other councilmen.

Police court must be held in public according to state law. Mayor Charles B. Mayne does so every day. No case is "hushed". However, whenever boys or girls are "up before His Honor" the mayor manages to hear their story without their names becoming public; that is, if they deserve it. The mayor knows the world and isn't averse to giving a break now and then to the deserving. . . . James Thomas is serving his second term as police chief. It is the third time as police chief for J. Young. . . . Earl Reeves is first deputy in the city treasury. . . . Owen Fox is the chap who keeps the city's forestry in good condition and is responsible for rearing flowers in the parks, except at Cascade. . . . Yes, there will be boating this summer.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

FOOD POISONING

It is quite a common thing for children to be acutely ill following the eating of some food. It is natural that this should be the case because young children have comparatively little resistance to bacteria in their systems.

The general history of the case is likely to be that the child begins vomiting, has a temperature and diarrhea. The mother isn't upset about it for she has seen the same thing happen before, so she reaches for the castor oil bottle, as she remarks that "Johnny has a touch of ptomaine poisoning". Actually, cases of ptomaine poisoning are quite rare.

The ptomaines are poisons produced by decomposition and it was once thought they were responsible for most food poisonings. We have learned now that bacterial toxins are really the responsible parties.

Mothers are foolish to take such cases of food poisoning too lightly, for I have seen children die of it. Most get over the poisoning, but they have a miserable time for a while, and the child's whole progress is interfered with for some time.

Of course, children are mostly to blame themselves for such poisonings. As parents all know well, children will eat almost anything—at least most of them will. I remember a case I attended not so long ago. A farmer's daughter was on her way to the rural school carrying her lunch. On the way, a motorist stopped and offered her a ride. When the child got out of the car at the school gate, she forgot her lunch and the owner of the car drove away with it.

That day, her girl friends shared lunch with the youngster who had lost her lunch pail, because it was too far to go home and she couldn't go all day without eating.

A couple of days later, the motorist returned past the school at noon hour. He stopped and located the little girl whose lunch pail he had, and returned it to her. Of course, the man didn't open the pail, or take anything out of it, so the child had an extra pail of lunch. She opened it up, it looked alright, so she and one of her friends shared an egg sandwich from it. They only needed a bite to see that the sandwich was bad, they told other girls and they tested the sandwich too. None of them had more than a bite of the sandwich, but by bedtime that night I had three or four calls to homes where children were suffering from food poisoning. Each place I went I got the same story, the child had taken a bite of that three or four day old meal. One or two of them were ill for four or five days.

This as an instance of how easily food poisoning can occur. Around our nursery, the help have all been warned not to leave food around where the quintuplets could get it. Then the quints themselves are warned not to eat anything away from the dining room.

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!
When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it first and "cure" it afterward. Find out what's giving you the trouble.
Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.
If this is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such a one as the crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal, Kellogg's All-Bran. Eat it often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Public Test Of Deadly Aerial Bomb Is Ready

(International News Service)

BALTIMORE, March 26.—Lester P. Barlow ,who says he has invented the most deadly aerial bomb ever made, was to conduct the first public test of his weapon today.

Today's demonstration, designed primarily to test the "safety-in-handling" factors of the bomb, will be held in a remote corner of the proving grounds of the Glenn L. Martin airplane plant near Baltimore. Barlow is an engineer in the Martin plant.

Although orginally announced as the first step in proving the bomb's worth to congressional and U. S. military experts, there was considerable doubt over who would attend the ceremony.

Leading members of both the Senate and House military and naval affairs committees who had been invited to be present, said that no members of Congress would be on hand.

The war department announced that Lt.-Col. K. F. Adamson, of the ordinance division, would attend, but only as a "private observer."

Barlow at first sought permission to demonstrate his claims in an unsettled area of the southwest on a site the size of a modern battleship Using animals as subjects, he said he would show that the bomb would destroy all life within an area of two miles through powerful detonating rays.

Congressional experts and Barlow compromised on a demonstration closer to the capital and without any living subjects.

Complete Taking Bedside Testimony In Murder Trial

(International News Service)

HONESDALE, Pa., Mar. 28—An entire court, judge, jurors, lawyers and clerks—moved back to Wayne county courthouse today after taking bedside testimony from state trooper Edgar Shaffer at the Wayne Memorial hospital in the murder trial of James W. Varner, former Scranton school director.

Varner was charged with killing John Garrity, Jr., in Pike county on July 30. Shaffer was regarded as a key witness for the commonwealth.

The trooper was operated on for appendicitis on Tuesday of last week and was unable to appear in court to testify. When it came time for his testimony, Judge Alfred E. Swoyer ordered the trial transferred to Shaffer's room in the hospital.

Varner allegedly killed Garrity during an argument over the illegal killing of a deer. He admitted the shooting but contended Garrity fired at him first.

Socialite Playboy To Begin Prison Term In Philippine Bond Case

EXPECT TWO OTHERS WILL SURRENDER

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 26—William P. Buckner, Jr., the socialite playboy convicted in the Philippine railway bond fraud case, surrendered today to begin serving his two-year prison term.

His two co-defendants, Felipe Buencamino and William J. Gillespie, also were expected to surrender later in the day.

"It isn't the first tough break I've had. I'm getting used to them," Buckner said, declaring that he still feels that he has done nothing wrong and that no one has been refrauded.

His medical report showed that he was suffering from angina pectoris, a heart ailment and it will be attached to his clemency petition, he said.

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard declared prison might be a good place for Buckner, especially if he has heart trouble, after several witnesses reported seeing him at various night club frequently with pretty girl companions recently.

Truckers Plan Pioneer Parade

Truck Association To Sponsor Mammoth Parade Wednesday Afternoon

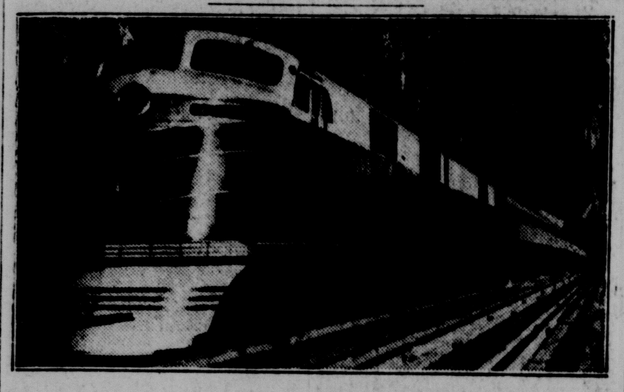
As a feature of Transportation Day, Wednesday, March 27, the Lawrence County chapter of the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association will stage a truck parade over the downtown streets and on out to the East Side, Paul W. Keeley chairman of the Motor Transport committee announced today.

The parade will form on North Cedar street, move up Atlantic avenue down Washington street and on out east. The parade moves at three o'clock with Mr. Keeley in charge as fleetmaster.

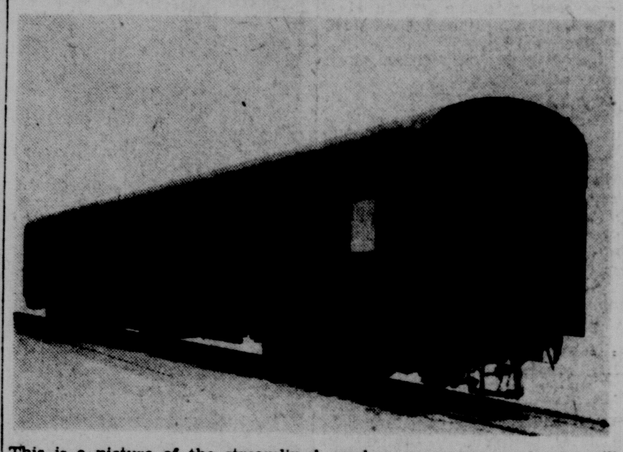
In addition a modern freight hauler will be displayed on Washington street during the day.

Modern Railroad Equipment Will Be Shown Wednesday

Pioneer Week Transportation Display To Be Seen Near Site Of Old East Side Station As Feature Of Day.



The Capitol Limited, crack train of the Baltimore and Ohio, is hauled by a Diesel engine, one of which is seen in this picture. These engines make the trip from Chicago to Washington without any change. Every night in the year shortly after midnight the eastbound and westbound Capitol Limiteds pass near New Castle Junction.



This is a picture of the streamlined, modern passenger coach you will see Wednesday at the old East Side Station, as a part of the Transportation Day exhibit. The coach is one of the new Pennsylvania coaches and is worth your time to visit.

"Dinner is served in the dining car" is a cry that is always welcome aboard modern passenger trains. Here is a picture of one of the modern diners used by the Pennsylvania. This one, or one exactly like it will be on display Wednesday at the old East Side passenger station, as a part of Transportation Day exhibits.

As a part of Pioneer Week and a feature of Transportation Day, which is Wednesday, March 27, the four railroads entering New Castle will co-operate in a display of modern railroad equipment. The display will be placed on the tracks near the old East Side station and will consist of a modern stream lined coach, a Pullman roomette and a modern diner.

Railroading today is vastly different from the old days of wooden coaches, uncomfortable sleeping cars and small engines. Today the entire train length is streamlined, the engine is either a long sleek coal burner or a Diesel. Schedules today are made at high average speeds and the comfort of the passenger is constantly cared for.

Riding an air conditioned, stream lined train today is an experience the old timers would have enjoyed. Outside, the poles are rushing past at a speed sometimes reaching 100 miles per hour. In the diner one can be served food as tastefuly prepared as in a modern hotel.

In the club car can be found magazines, cards, a radio, and lounge clairs that envelop one in a blanket of comfort. Into the construction of the coaches and locomotive have gone the ingenuity and skill of many men and many minds. Railroad travel today is speedy, safe and most comfortable.

Two committees were appointed by Activities Director W. Fulton Jackson for Transportation Day. For the four railroads, the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, Pittsburgh and Lake Erie, and the Erie, four men were appointed, Charles I. Wetmore, S. Huston Rhoads, Milton A. Bickett and Wayne A. Hart. For the truck industry Paul W. Keeley, president of the local truck association was appointed.

The exhibits on Wednesday are something well worth seeing. They will be on view from ten a. m. to ten p. m. with attendants in charge to answer questions. The admission is free, the exhibits being there as a part of Pioneer Week.

Ministerial Group Hears Grove City Pastor At Meeting

Association Plans Farewell Dinner For Dr. And Mrs. C. H. Heaton

Rev. W. E. Bartlett of Grove City, superintendent of the Grove City district of the Methodist church, was guest speaker at the meeting of the New Castle Ministerial Association, Monday, in the First Presbyterian church.

The president of the association, Rev. Thomas B. Shearer, had charge of the meeting.

Reports were given by Rev. W. A. Thornton for the law and order committee, and by Rev. P. C. Pearson for the library committee, who requested the members to send in recommendations for new books. Reports of the three-hour Good Friday services were given by Rev. E. J. Blasdell for the Mahoningtown service, Rev. R. T. Williams for the South Side service, Rev. Pearson for the service in Trinity church, and Rev. W. V. McLean for the service in the First Presbyterian church.

The president announced that Dr. C. H. Heaton had resigned from the First Baptist church pulpit and the matter of a farewell was referred to the executive committee.

Rev. McLean, chairman of the program committee, presented Rev. Bartlett at this time. He chose as his subject 'Is America Losing Her Soul" and carefully traced the ruin of other nations through history, then analyzed conditions in our own land, drawing his conclusions by comparisons. Following a discussion of the paper, a unanimous vote of thanks was given Rev. Bartlett.

The association will meet again on Monday, April 8, when the Honorable Fred L. Rentz will be the speaker. Mr. Rentz will speak on the subject, "The Newspaper and the Church."

After the meeting, the executive committee met and Rev. J. J. McIlvaine, Rev. S. E. Irvine and Rev. R. B. Withers were appointed to arrange a farewell dinner for Dr. and Mrs. Heaton with the cooperation of the Ministers' Wives club.

Youth Conference Hears Edna Lewis

Conference Opened Monday Evening At Primitive Methodist Church

Western Pennsylvania Youth Conference got under way last evening in the Primitive Methodist church on South Mill street. The six day youth meetings are under the sponsorship of the Union Young People of the city of New Castle. Coming to New Castle from the west coast, Miss Edna Lewis captivated her audience last night as she presented to the large group of young people present the vision as it was presented to her for the evangelization of America today.

Miss Lewis brought no sensational message as she spoke but her thoughts were well received by the group present. She challenged her audience to share the responsibility that has been put on her namely: "A Home by Home Crusade" in getting out the Gospel.

The speaker is a pioneer in beginning this work in America and today, she, along with Miss Elizabeth Lewis, will initiate that work in New Castle. Several special numbers were rendered in last evening's service by the Evans Trio of East Liverpool, Ohio.

Tonight's service, which begins at 7:30, will have the young men's quartet from the Christian and Missionary Alliance. The conference will continue until Saturday with afternoon and evening sessions.

Annual Report Of Boro Manager

Synopsis Of Detailed Activities Of 1939 Outlined By Lowell W. Monroe

ELLWOOD CITY, March 26—Borough manager Lowell W. Monroe made the following annual report for 1939:

Ellwood City residents can point to 1939 as a year during which they enjoyed a period of little better than average prosperity, the industrial plants worked most of the year on a forty hour week schedule and at the same time there was a drop in the municipal tax rate of one mill, two mills having been taken off the previous year, or an average drop of one and one half mills per year.

The outstanding improvements were: the construction of a complete storm sewer in Center avenue prior to the paving of this street between Tenth street and Thirteenth street, paving of Pittsburgh Circle from Fountain avenue southeasterly to Spring avenue in the south west quadrant: the paving of all streets in the Highland Terrace Plan of lots together with the necessary storm sewer system, and appurtenances; riprapping of cut-falls for the following storm sewers; north Glenn and Pittsburgh Circle; North street and Bridge street; storm sewer on Third street south of Pittsburgh Circle and also on Sixth street at Glenn avenue; General Park and recreation improvement by the completion of two additional bituminous surfaced tennis courts, grading and stone surfacing of a one way scenic drive along the bank of the Connequenessing creek, building four rustic shelters with tables and fire places. The above work was accomplished with Federal W. P. A. labor. In addition to the above a sewing project employing an average of thirty women per week operated throughout the year.

Other non-manual projects were the real property inventory survey of Ellwood City and environs and a complete change of the Meter record system for the electric department. All the above work has been accomplished on the basis of a sponsor contribution of 20 per cent and a federal contribution of 80 per cent of the total estimated cost.

The 1939 legislature did not materially effect the operation of Borough government at its regular biannual session, except for the passage of some enabling acts concerning the payment of delinquent taxes and liens. It did, however, repeal the state plumbing code in so far as it effected boroughs. No change was made on the 1937 budget act.

An attempt was made by the Borough of Ellwod City to have a portion of certain streets within the corporate limits made a part of the state highway system, but this attempt failed in that there was no general omnibus bill presented to the legislature.

Coldest Winter On Record For Pittsburgh Area

Continued Cold Since January Sets Record Says Pittsburgh Weather Man

PITTSBURGH, March 26—What everyone has been suspecting is true. The winter just ended was the coldest in Pittsburgh history.

After the chilliest Easter on record, Weatherman W. S. Brotzman buried himself in data books today and came up with the announcement that the city since January 1 has had a deficiency of 647 degrees in temperature.

That's the biggest heat deficiency since the Pittsburgh Weather Bureau began keeping records in 1871.

Siege Began In January

"This has been the coldest winter on record,' Mr. Brotzman said. "We have had some lower temperatures in other years but the continued cold this year makes this the worst."

December temperatures were almost normal but January started the cold siege that has gone on uninterruptedly through the Easter holidays.

Average temperature in January was 17.4 degrees, the lowest on record, breaking the previous low of 18.6 in 1918. The deficiency was 13.3 degrees per day.

In February, the average temperature was 29.8, not as cold at 1934's February but still a deficiency of 2.5 degrees per day.

Year Of Big Snow

March in 24 days has piled up a deficiency of 168 degrees, or seven a day.

The winter also will go down in history as the time of the "big snow" for the snowfall of between 16 and 18 inches on Valentine Day was the heaviest ever to hit Pittsburgh.

January snow was above normal, while February hit an all-time peak with 22.7 inches, compared with a normal of 7.6 inches. March has moved along with about normal snowfall.

During the last few days, records have been toppling all over the place.

Student Nurses Get White Caps

Impressive Exercises Held In New Castle Hospital School Of Nursing

During recent exercises held in the New Castle Hospital School of Nursing, 15 young ladies, who have completed six months of training, received white caps.

Miss Helen Campbell, who addressed the class, explained that the white cap once was symbolic of servitude, but now completes a nurse's uniform and is an emblem of nursing and symbolizes reliability, purity, honesty and intelligent training.

The program opened with procession, each of the 15 "probationary" students was accompanied by a "big sister". The nurses carried lighted candles and the white caps. Later, the caps were placed by the sister directress.

The exercise was attended by the parents and friends of the newly capped students, together with the sisters in charge of the hospital, and other members of the school.

PETER THE HERMIT

Peter Volpe, known to his neighbors as Peter the Hermit, has built a hut on a Cleveland, Ohio, dump in suburban Newburgh Heights. The hut is built of railroad ties and sod. Volpe raises what he needs to eat in a garden beside the hut.

PIONEER SPIRIT MARCHING ON IN NEW CASTLE

Whether you are eating in a hotel, a restaurant, a railroad dining car, aboard a man-of-war, a CCC camp or a United States Army barracks, if you will turn your plate upside down, the chances are good that you will find the picture of an Indian there, and the words, Shenango Pottery, New Castle, Pa.

Shenango Pottery by now is an established trade mark half way round the world. It signifies the highest quality in china ware, back of it is a plant that knows nothing about inferior grades of ware, when the word Shenango is stamped on it, the name is a guarantee.

The manufacture of chinaware isn't a new business and the name Pioneer certainly applies. Actually chinaware was first manufactured by Mother Nature millions of years ago when she deposited feldspar in the hills. Modern chinaware is really feldspar ground up, reassembled and a few other things added. But what a difference in the product.

In New Castle chinaware manufacturing rates as a modern pioneer for the successful manufacture of it goes back only about 31 years. Prior to that, in 1862, Messrs. Hill and Harmon opened a plant here for the manufacture of stone ware (apple butter crocks) together with some terra cotta, stone pumps, chimney tops and flower pots. The plant was located on the Wilmington road just opposite to where now is located the Castle View Burial Park. In 1882 the plant was abandoned.

In 1901 the New Castle China Company was organized and built a six kiln plant on the present location of the Shenango Pottery Company. The officers of this company were David C. Wallace, president; Frank E. Davis, secretary and treasurer, directors A. C. Hoyt, Charles H. Johnson, John H. Preston. The company manufactured vitrified hotel ware and dinnerware for private homes. In four years time the plant was closed.

In 1901 the Shenango China Company was also organized with the following officers, Eugene N. Baer, president; Edwin F. Norris, vice president, P. E. Whittaker, secretary, E. E. McGill, treasurer. Directors, Captain M. S. Marquis, Andrew Fleckenstein, William E. Wallace Elmer Phillips, Charles A. Phillips. This plant located on Emery street, started to make a semi-vitreous hotel and dinner ware and employed approximately 150 people. In 1905 the company was in financial difficulty and a receiver was appointed. A new organization was effected and a charter taken out under the name of the Shenango Pottery Company. The officers and directors of this company were Captain M. S. Marquis, president; Charles C Robingson, vice president; W E Wallace, treasurer, F. E. Wallace, secretary. Directors, Andrew Fleckenstein, E. E. McGill, E. F. Norris, Elmer I. Phillips.

The going was still rough and by 1908 the company was again in financial difficulty and three of the directors put in a substantial amount of cash but by April 1909 the new cash exhausted, the company was in trouble again and an entire new group took over the property and elected the following officers, James M. Smith, president and treasurer; Rufus C. Patterson, vice president and treasurer. Directors, Edward W. Beadel, W. A. Shipler, John H. Clapp.

The new combination seemed to be the answer to the puzzle of nine years. Slowly the plant began getting hold in the industry and 1912 the plant of the New Castle China Company was purchased and the machinery and equipment of the Shenango moved from Emery street.

About March 1913 the changes were completed and the plant was about ready to get under way again when the flood hit. The plant was covered to a depth of three feet of the Shenango river flood waters and it was May 1913 before the damage was repaired.

Apparently the hard luck that had dogged the steps of the company was through. Or perhaps it would be better to say that the new company was headed by a man who wouldn't quit trying. James M. Smith. At any rate since 1913 the Shenango Pottery Company has advanced every year. Today there are almost 1200 men and women employed in the plant, the buildings cover a huge acreage along the Shenango river and the world knows that Shenango china is tops.

The bulk of the ware produced by Shenango is hotel chinaware but the plant also produces fine chinaware that finds its way to the homes of the discriminating.

Year by year the plant has been expanded, improvements made, and new ways sought to turn out even better ware. A few years ago Mr. Smith revolutionized the chinaware industry by abandoning the use of conical kilns and installing tunnel kilns. There were those who thought it couldn't be done but it was and is now accepted as the modern way of firing china.

In 1936 William Haviland, president of the famous Theodore Haviland potteries of Limoges, France, came to the United States for the purpose of investigating the possibilities of manufacturing Haviland ware in the United States. High duties and mounting costs in France made it almost impossible to continue manufacture there, for the American markets.

Mr. Haviland came to New Castle, looked over the Shenango plant, saw the high calibre of workmen employed and his decision was made. Haviland china was to be manufactured in New Castle by the Shenango Pottery Company and today the Haviland ware you see in the markets of the United States is made here in New Castle.

It is an unusual plant, the Shenango Pottery, a plant that is monument to the doggedness of the head of it, a tribute to modern pioneering.

In the manufacture of Shenango chinaware, materials come from various parts of the world. China clay comes from three different mines in England, two in North Carolina and one in Florida. Sagger clay comes from Kentucky and New Jersey. White sand which comprises 40 per cent of the body of chinaware comes from Illinois. Granite and talcum powder come from Vermont.

The present officers and directors of the company are President and treasurer, James M. Smith, Sr., vice president, Charles W. Read, James K. Love and Jonothan Higgins. Assistant treasurer, James M. Smith, Jr., directors, Rufus C. Patterson, Wendell H. Shipler and J. F. Genkinger.

Fannins And Junior Ex-High Stars Meet For Class B Championship

Tonight is the night of nights at George Washington junior high gym, as the third annual City-County basketball tourney goes into the finals, with the Polish Falcons meeting the Collegiates for the class A championship, and the Fannins and Junior Ex-High Stars tangling for the class B championship. The first game starts at 7:30 o'clock.

The gates will open at 7:45 o'clock. By game time the Washington high gym will no doubt be packed to the doors. There is considerable interest being shown in the tourney finals. The Falcons, due to their stellar style of team play, are the favorites to win the class A toga, held last year by the Keystone A. C. team. The Collegiates may have a surprise for the Falcons, however,

Very Fine Trophies

Jack Gerson of the Gerson jewelry store will be present tonight to make the presentation of the trophies and medals. Mr. Gerson donated the class A trophy, a beautiful peace of metal. Larry Perelman of the Perelman jewelry store donated the class B championship trophy. Others who donated trophies are: Sporting Goods Store, Gus Slovonsky of the Gus Shop, New Castle Exchange club, Penn Power, and Arthur Meek of the Meek jewelry store.

The Falcons will have their hands full to stop Jimmy Dart, Eddie Nahas and Tom Carey, all finished performers. The Collegiates must contend with such stars as Eddie and Henry Koszela, George Adams and Paul Morrison. It will be a brilliant battle of stars.

The Collegiates, under other names the Epworth Church and Gus Big Five, have been serious contenders for two years, and this year may reach the top. Last year the Gus Big Five eliminated Ellwood City in the first round. The Falcons were the runnersup to the Keystones last year. They are mighty anxious to win the title this trip.

Fannins vs. Junior Stars

The class B championship game is going to be a honey, also.. The Fannins, made up of former and present high school stars, have waded through a lot of tough teams—New Castle Indies, Mustangs and K. Pulaski Reserves, to reach the finals. The Junior Ex-High Stars have met and defeated such fine teams as the Wabash Bears, Church League, All-Stars and Plaingrove Aces, to reach the finals.

The Fanins will feature with such stars as Eddie Cowden, Vince Kelly, Jay Thomas, Christopher and Bucci. The Junior Ex-High Stars have Sammy Ciazza, Red Ross and Lindy Lauro as their three scoring stars.

Admission Prices Raised

General Chairman A. R. "Tony" Conn said today that the fans should not overlook the fact that the admission prices for the finals tonight have been raised to 25c for adults and 15c for children. The tourney 50c tickets are no good for the finals tonight.

Mr. Conn wishes to thank everyone for their patronage at the third annual tourney, and also the tourney committee headed by Sid Lockley, Mose Mancine and Paul Eagan, for their co-operation in making the tourney the success that it has been.

In the third game on the card tonight, billed as a consolation game, the Eagan and Brinko team of New Wilmington will play the Gerson Jewelers. With the New Wilmington team will be Paul "Lefty" Minner, the high school star center.

Johnny Dean Beats Columbo

Billy Soose Wins Decision Over Nelson In Ten Rounds

Johnny Dean, 159½, this city, defeated Norm Colombo, 149½, Rochester, N. Y., in a good six round battle in Rayen-Wood auditorium, Youngstown, last night.

Dean was the aggressor, better puncher and in the fourth round landed a left hook to the jaw that sent Colombo down. He arose at the count of nine.

At times Colombo out-generalled Dean and made him miss. However, Dean's aggressiveness, weight advantage and better punching brought him through a winner by a safe margin.

Billy Soose, Farrell, and Frankie Nelson, Davenport, Ia., middleweights, fought a 10 round fight with the decision going to the Farrell battler.

Both lacked a punch and fought to the head almost entirely throughout. Soose's left cheek was cut early in the fight but the laceration apparently caused him no trouble.

Steve Morgan, middleweight of Youngstown, who fought here as an amateur, decisioned Packy McFarland, of Warren, 160, in four rounds.

Andy Wertz, welterweight, who also fought here as an amateur beat Leo Sweeney, 147½, Pittsburgh, in four rounds.

Milton Glass, 126, Rochester, N. Y., knocked out Frank Flynn, 126, of Akron, in the third round.

Blackie Fundoots With West Pittsburg For Thirteen Years

DeGenova Starting Fifth Year As Manager, Hope For Pennant

When the West Pittsburg baseball team takes the field for the opening of the City Baseball league this year they will have a man in the outfield who can be classified as a real veteran. He is Ralph "Blackie" Fundoots. He is starting his 14th year with the West Pittsburg 'Gas House' gang.

Fundoots has no equal in the city league when it comes to patrolling the outer garden. He is also one of the most dependable hitters that Manager Danny DeGenova has on the team.

Danny DeGenova is starting his fifth year as manager at West Pittsburg and has won three championships. This is a very fine record.

Other veterans in the West Pittsburg team are, Richard and John Elsesser. Manager DeGenova is looking for big things this year from Kosier, Winters and Powell all of the Wampum area who have helped the "Gas House" gang win many ball games.

Greyhounds Honored At Fete Monday Night

Banquet Fine Ending To New Wilmington's Successful cage Season

ROBERT THORN MAIN SPEAKER

New Wilmington paid tribute to another of its crack high school basketball teams on Monday night.

More than 125 persons gathered in the New Wilmington Presbyterian church for the delightful banquet sponsored by the community's school board.

Harold Burns, toastmaster of the evening, praised the classy "Greyhounds" for their splendid showing during the cage season.

Burns then introduced Grover C. Washabaugh, coach of Westminster College. The popular Titan mentor complimented the young men for the impressive record compiled during the season.

John Eagleson, coach of the Section 20 champs, thanked the squad for the splendid cooperation received during the season. He complimented the athletes and then announced that the following young men will receive awards at a later date:

N. Borowicz, D. Borowicz, Paul Minner, Casey Sharp, Glenn Means, James McLaughry and Kenneth Spear.

Robert Thorn, Grove City College coach, the principal speaker, delivered an inspiring talk. He pointed out that students receive much benefit by participating in athletics, or any other activities conducted by the school. He congratulated the athletes for the fine record and lauded the community for the interest and support it gives the team.

The occasion was an ideal ending to another successful season. New Wilmington High copped the Section 20 championship and then made its second consecutive trip to the Class B WPIAL tournament. After eliminating West Newton, New Wilmington was defeated by Point Marion, winner of this season's championship. The "Greyhounds" suffered but one defeat in the season.

City Baseball Meeting Tonight

Moose Will Probably Enter Team In City League At Meeting

Officials and managers of the City Baseball League will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at St. Joseph Parish Hall for the purpose of discussing the coming season and to take out their 1940 franchises. All franchise money must be in tonight in the hands of Secretary-Treasurer Michael "Jake" Babovsky.

At the moment there are but six teams in the league as follows: West Pittsburg, Slovaks, Columbus club, Lawrence Indies, Ryantown, Elder A. C., and West Side Tigers. The Union Civics and K. Pulaski will probably not be in the league this summer. It is understood that the Moose Lodge is sponsoring a team this year and that they will seek a City League franchise. "Fiz" Rodenbaugh is to manage the Moose team.

No team will be taken into the league after tonight. If another team outside of the Moose can be secured, the league will again operate with eight teams.

St. Louis Browns Are Improved Team

Five-Year Building Plan Started In 1937 Is Starting To Bear Fruit

Need Good Catcher, Pitching Staff Has Never Been Too Strong

By THERON HOTT
International News Service Sports Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 26.—To ask Skipper Fred Haney where his 1940 St. Louis Browns will finish brings only a smile of toleration.

From President Donald Barnes you'll get a shrug of the shoulders and from Bill Dewitt, general manager, nothing more encouraging than, "We have a long-range program for the Browns—until it has run its course, we can't make any prediction worth printihg. But we're improving."

Close observers of the team in spring training here see them finishing in sixth place. This is an optimistic outlook.

Five-Year Plan

However, they widely heralded 'five-year plan' launched in 1937 seems to be beginning to bear fruit for the 1939 doormat of the American League. Through the ramifications of their farm system, the Browns have quietly proceeded to rebuild.

The first phase of the 'five-year plan' has passed, this being the three years that Dewitt set as the time required to establish his source of supply for raw material. The next two seasons will be devoted to maturing the youngsters on the farms and by 1942, the Browns hope really to commence moving. Until then the Browns will be just another club in the American League.

Besides its regular roster of about 40 players, Haney's club has strings on 125 players with its farm affiliates.

Among the new pitchers who show promise are Emil Bildilli, San Antonio southpaw; John Niggeling, obtained from Cincinnati; Chili Wagener, another lefty up from San Antonio and Loy Hanning, Springfield. Ne comers, too, all with previous experience in the majors, are Elden Auker, Nathan Andrews and Jake Wade.

May Trade Glenn

Joe Glenn is slated to go in a trade and the Browns will be without catching strength, unless they get a receiver. Bobby Swift, up from San Antonio, probably will be the first-stringer.

The infield is set. George McQuinn will take care of first, Johnny Lucadello, a San Antonio product, will be at second; Alan Strange, $7,000 purchase from Portland of the Pacific Coast League, will be at shortstop and Harlond Clift, seven years a Brownie, stays at third.

The odd men for the infield include Johnny Berardino for third base, Bob Neighbors for short and Don Heffner for second.

In the outfield, the picture is pretty well confused, but Joe Grace, Chester Laabs, Myril Hoag and Joe Gallagher seem to be the standouts.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Among those who will attend the Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association fete Thursday evening is Jack Sines, true, gray of hair yet firm in step and decidedly interested in everything that pertains to hunting and fishing. Through his efforts the game farm at Harlansburg was started. He had charge of the farm for many years.

Anyone who would like to have a try-out with the Loyal Order of Moose baseball team should communicate with Manager Fiz Rodenbaugh, James Thomas or any officer of the local lodge. The Moose expects to build up one of the fastest teams in the city. It is not necessary that a player's father be a member of the Moose, it was stated.

Johnny Aicher, Sharon heavyweight is a stablemate of Gus Lesnevich, No. 1 challenger of Light-Heavyweight Champion Billy Conn. . . . Hymie Caplin, well known fight manager, said in New York recently he believes World's Heavyweight King Joe Louis is slipping and that Johnny Paycheck may 'take' the champion when they meet. . . . . Although many present fans may not know it, nevertheless the truth is Dan Sweeney of this city fought Bob Fitzsimmons when Bob was about 54, in Williamsport. Ruby Bob won. . . . Bill Rittleman, former Castle Cord ball player is on the Ambridge police force, reports reaching here say.

Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia veteran, scored a one-sided win over Arthur Rubin, New York, in the world's three cushion billiard championship meet yesterday in Chicago, 50 to 28 in 59 innings. Rubin is in last place.

Sammy Angott and Davy Day may fight for the N. B. A. lightweight title in Pittsburgh. . . . Ed Cieslinski, 25-year-old Buffalo keg-

Rich Vallee,

Deer Fellers:

Well I suppose you fellers are still wholed up fer the winer, and kan't git up to kamp. It sure haz bin a two-squaw winer this year. And I'm here to tell you guys that our game have put in one of the worst winers I hav' ever seen in these heer parts. And besides if the Game Commission had control of the weather like they do of the killin' of our wild-life in this heer state, they would never had thoos open seesons to thin out thees heards. A couple of winers like this past one, and the like of '36 and we'd all be thined out.

Fred, our son and I found tyme a little heavy on our hands last Sunday, on account of we couldn't git to church, because of the heavy snow. The roads were blocked out, and drifted at leest 10 foot high. That trailer that them Nuu York boys own at the bend of Elk fork, waz compleetli covered. A little short peece of the smoke stack wuz all thet could be seen from the barn. Fer a minute I thought some critter had stolen it, until I discovered my mistake. Thet afternoon fred and I took a little hike over to Billy Holler just to see what kondishun the worls waz in. We rigged up our snow shoos and started over the Flats, back into thet slashing thet that Wringer got tangled up in last fall. No wonder he got hung up by hiz supenders, over thet dam in the run. Fred and I examined thet bear den, and all thet is noticeable is the frost aboot the entrance. Over the ridge into Clear creek, and into Beechwood we took. In thet short jaunt all we seen waz 5 does. One big one might have been a buck, but it waz so worn out with the hard winer it had went thru thet it looked like thet deer Cifur shot last fall. It waz gittin late and we took a short cut over the ridges toward home, and after we found our bearings agin, we were in Bobby's Run in the Vallee. It waz almost dark wen we got home, and very tired. Soon Maw, had some hot soup fer us, and we got busy with the milkin'.

Ol' man Panton waz a tellin' the boy the other day, that all thoos trout streems down aboot Driftwood have been frozen to the bottom all thru the winer. I jist wonder whay thet meens to our trout fishin' this year. The boys have some real sockOdollogers lined up fer the opening day. But if this weather stays like this who the heck wants to fish.

I seed by the paper were the Lawrence County boys are going to have there anual pow-wow agin, in the Katheeddrawl, and I'm rite sorry I kan't make it this hear year. I sure wood like to here thet Ross Leffler speak on one of them subjects thet hiz so familiar on. No wonder he's the president now, they know real men wen they see one, (with all due respects to the past president). One thing aboot Ross, thet I like so well is thet he mixes with all of the sportsmen. No matter who or watt you are he finds time to chat with you. He certainly can pin the ears back and make faces red wen he confronts men who have no respect fer game kodes. Thet fisherman, violin player, Charley French, who also is going to speek, now there a feller who haz reely pulled the fishin' proposishun up by the boot straps ever sinse he took over. I hope he gits up this year agin, to through a few wet and dry flies with me in Main Streem. Say hello to thees fellers for me will you plees.

Tell Rainy thet the seams on his fireless kooker have opened up more then ever. The place ought to be nice and cool by the fust of August, next wen he takes over again.

Hileman, tells me thet the Moose opened up a flew home in Emporyum, jist to accomidate thoos New Castle boys wen they come up. Pretty thoughtful of them I says. Well I suppose thet means thet the Tin City boys have another home wen the move in. Ever since we lost thet Effie cow last huntin' seeson, my voice haz been like thet wheeze of Fraziers wen he's sleepin'. So, thet means you will have to kount me out of thet quartette you fellers have bin organizing.

Say I'd sure givin' most anything to hed a snort of thet stuff Gibby and thoos MacKormick boys hed in there systems, the day they dugged out them wild dogs near Hells Holler, werever thet is. It's jist a good thing thet you fellers didn't bring home eny of thet Sizerville Appleseed brandy. One tilt of thet stuff and they'y bin draggin' mine cars and mules out of thet coal mine thet you sed lays under thet den., along with them wild currs.

Did you ever reed the poem Mrs. Gibson rite about thet Kate dog of his. Say I'll send it down to thet reporter feller and see what he can do, aboot puttin' it in the paper fer youans all to reed. It sure is rite smart poetry.

Say the OL' ladee is a yellin' fer wood fer the kitchen stove, wants to git supper over. We'ans is figgerin' on going over to the Grange tonight and see a play. Not much else adoin' aboot. Well don't fergit invite the fellers to dunk lines in the Elk and Main Streems with us this summer. Elmer Yoho, rite thet he will be up after election and git reated up. Tell him thet I have plenti of cord wood on hand.

Yer frend, LEROY.

Almost all piano accordions formerly came from central and southern Europe, but today there are several makers of quality instruments in this country. One American manufacturer has been able to reduce the weight of the bulky instrument from the traditional 21 pounds to 17 by using light-weight aluminum alloys for reed plates, wire controls, bass key pistons, bass action piston stop brackets and grille. Tones are said to be as rich as the heavier instruments.

Second U. P. Team Wins Class A Championship

Defeat Third U. P. In Stirring Battle At "Y" Monday 34 To 23

McGary Brothers And Jamison Lead Countyline Streeters To Fine Victory

The Second U. P. church basketball team with a last half finish that had the Third U. P. bewildered captured the Class A championship of the New Castle church league last night at the "Y" 34 to 23. The Second team led by Johnny McGary, Jamison and Bill McGary really turned on the heat the final two periods to pile up 20 points.

At the end of the first half the teams were tied up at 14-14. It was a hard fought battle. Yost and Theopolis paced the Third and first two periods with two buckets apiece J. McGary and Jamison had two field goals apiece for the Second U. P. quintet.

Really Go To Town

After the intermission at the half the Second U. P. team came back with a determination that could not be denied and the boys led by the McGary brothers started to pour them in the hoops. Both of the McGarys had three field goals apeice the final two periods.

The Third U. P. team could not locate the hoops with any degree of effectiveness. They had but 9 points for the entire last half. Best for the losers was Yost and Theopolis with seven points apiece.

Their performance last night stamps the Second U. P. team as a great quintet. They are fine sports men as well as champions. The Third team won the first half title and the Second team the second half crown. Last Wednesday night the Second U. P. team won the first game of the series by a score of 31 to 30.

Will Get Medals

They are singing the praises of this Second U. P. team today in the church league circle and rightly so. This is the first time in a great many years that Second has won the championship and no doubt the boys will be tendered a rousing banquet in the church at a later date.

Each member of the championship team gets a handsome medal from the "Y" through Henry McNicholas. The medals will be given the boys at their banquet.

Hail The Champs

ALCOVE PROBLEM SPOT

The small alcove in older houses is often a decorative problem spot. One ingenious decorator solved the problem by giving it a different wallpaper treatment and furnishing it with an Eighteenth century mahogany desk, chair and bookcase. The arch made the alcove a pleasing picture from the living room and it gave comparative peace, if not isolation, to the family book lover.

Sports World Ramblings

Battting practice on the typewriter—Jimmy Londos isn't 50 or 55 years of age. The most successful wrestler in the business today is about 43, maybe a year older. Dave Pappas, the East Washington street business man who peddled this bit of info, should know. He happens to be Londos' cousin. Pappas is expecting a visit from the Greek rassling master any day. . . .

New Castle's Easter parade was enhanced tremendously. Tony Ross, the former sweetie of the resin ravine, looked like a ringer for Beau Brummell. The ex-heavyweight mauler, now a Pittsburgh resident, spent the holiday here, exchanging pleasantries with relatives and a flock of his admirers. . . .

"Rosie" White, the fish warden, called in to thank us for a recent note printed in this column. The item mentioned that White could use some help in stocking local streams with trout. A week ago Monday, some 35 cars, loaded with more than 100 helpers, gathered in Pulaski, ready to aid the energetic warden. (Editor, please note). . . . .

Spilling 928, Anthony Rubino, smooth Ellwood City duckpin bowler, took an early lead in the National Rubber Band Duckpin singles tourney, now underway in Pittsburgh. Rubino put together scores of 251, 175, 181, 154 and 167 to lead the pack. A teammate, Frank Shrilla, incidentally, is trailing the leader with a 915 count. James Petrucci, another Tube City flash, is fourth with 873. Nicholas Ferrante is 12th with 835. . . . .

Diamond trivia — Teddy Lyons, among the few major leaguers to hop off a college campus into the big show, has won 221 victories in 17 years. His brilliant record includes a no-hitter at the expense of Boston in 1926 . . . "Lefty" Grove fell below the .500 mark but once. In 1925, he won 10 triumphs against 12 setbacks. . . . .

"Babe" Ruth ranks as one of the best southpaw pitchers in the history of the diamond sport. From 1915 to 1918, the mighty sultan copped 77 victories for the Red Sox. His record also shows that he pitched 29 consecutive scoreless innings in two World Series, both of which Boston won. Tired of pegging, the "Babe" turned outfielder and contributed to the game with 729 lusty home run acts. . . .

Things we never know 'bout sports 'till now—Navy can never have a giant basketball center. Academy regulations limit height to 6 feet 4 inches because of the low height of doorways aboard ships! . . . More than 2,000,000 bats are sold annually by a well known firm. Only 40,000 of this number are used by players in organized baseball. . . Don Lash, the track star, made good use of the trophies he won. He had his wife's wedding ring made out of the gold and diamonds which helped makeup the trophies!

SMART PUPILS MAKE GRADE IN COLLEGE

(International News Service)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 26—Student failures at the Pennsylvania State College during the past semester were proportionately twelve times greater among students who had been "tail-enders" in high school than among those who had led their high school classes, William S. Hoffman, college registrar, reported.

Out of 2912 Penn State students who entered college from the top, one-fifth of their high school classes only 22 or 0.8 per cent were dismissed for poor scholarship, while among the 205 students from the last fifth in high school the failures amounted to 9.7 per cent.

BRAIN ELECTRICITY

ST. LOUIS—A delicate instrument designed to measure the electrical activity of the brain was demonstrated recently at a meeting of the St. Louis Medical society. Developed by Drs. Irwin Levy and Henry G. DRINKERS ATTEND CHURCH

(International News Service)

BRADFORD, England—A party of regular patrons of the Royal Oak saloon here filled a pew in St. Mary's church. Some of them had not been to church for a score or more years. They were there because the local vicar had beaten them at dominoes. The stakes were beer all round if the vicar lost and church for the drinkers if he won.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

As you all know, this is what is called here in New Castle, Pioneer Week . . . Somewhere in this city there must be one of the old-fashioned spinning wheels and also an Indian costume. If you have one or both and will loan it to the Cathedral committee for use at the Pioneer dinner Saturday night, please call Mrs. L. B. Round, phone 328, or this desk, 4000 . . . thanks very much.

Had the privilege of looking over a little magazine printed about 1900. In this particular issue (printed in New York) the merits of New Castle and vicinity were discussed. Each leading business and businessman were thoroughly covered. One bit that attracted our interest was this part that accompanied the descriptions of each business man . . . he is "genial, courteous and obliging, enterprising and progressive" . . . that, my friends, was how they talked about our businessmen in 1900 . . . well, we can say the same things about our Modern Pioneers . . . look them over and you will find that we have a very fine group of businessmen here in New Castle . . . they are doing all they can to make the town prosper, but without your co-operation their job is hopeless . . . so let's all help them . . . and then each and every good worker will prosper.

Stanza five, and final stanza of "What Makes Home", written by Earl Williams of the New Castle Lions club:

We love old Pennsylvania
With her valleys and her hills.
The summer, fall and winter,
The springtime, with all its thrills.
Up and down this land we may wonder;
Over its mountains and plains we may roam;
But when it comes to real living
Just give us our New Castle home.

Don't forget the Sportsmen's Banquet Thursday evening of this week . . . folks from all over the state plan to attend this gala event . . . one of the largest of its kind in the state . . . come bring the family and enjoy an evening of good fun.

THE GUMPS—JUST BEFORE THE BALL

THE GREAT NIGHT ARRIVES!
MAMA, DEAR, YOU DO LOOK POSITIVELY DEVASTATING!
THANKS, DEAR—YO

Little Change In Market Prices

Slight Downward Trend Is Seen In Trading During Morning

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, March 26. — The stock market today continued to lose ground in a duplication of yesterday's modest decline. Losses were small in most cases, and several representative issues bucked the trend for gains.

Douglas and Boeing Aircraft gained fractions but a similar early gain by United Aircraft was converted into a small loss in the second hour.

Tobaccos and oils also displayed an independently firm tone. Elsewhere, though, the trend was easier.

International Nickel again hit a new 1940 bottom on a slide of almost a point. Other coppers, including Anaconda, Kennecott, Phelps-Dodge and American Smelting, also were lower.

Bethlehem, U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, General Electric, Montgomery Ward, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Pullman, Consolidated Edison and Southern Pacific were among the issues to slip behind minus signs.

Commodities lost ground, including grains and cotton. Bonds held within narrow limits. Foreign markets, reopening after the long eastern holidays, displayed a mixed trend.

Retail Sales Increase Here

Census Bureau Says Increase Greater Than In Most Pennsylvania Cities

STATISTICS GIVEN FOR TWO MONTHS

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 26.—Money flowing into the cash registers of independent retail merchants is increasing much more rapidly this year in New Castle than most Pennsylvania communities.

This is the word today from the Census Bureau. That agency bases its conclusion on a study of such sales during January and February by 1,674 representative independent retail stores of the Keystone state.

Spch sales in New Castle in January and February showed a gain of 20.2 per cent over the corresponding 1939 months. In the state at large, they increased only 11.1 per cent, or less than one-half the New Castle rise.

Of the 27 larger Pennsylvania cities in the survey, only two are credited with greater percentage increases than New Castle. Johnstown tops the list with a 24.9 per cent jump. Bethlehem comes next with 22.5 per cent and New Castle third.

February sales, as compared with February 1939, increased 15.6 per cent in New Castle and only 8.9 per cent in the state as a whole. The February expansion was greater in New Castle than all but four of the large cities studied — Harrisburg, Bethlehem, Johnstown, and McKeesport.
